

Drew Shiflett: Sculptural Works, 1984-2006 at Lesley Heller Gallery

This one-week exhibition, offered as part of the inaugural Lower Eastside Art Week, explores early sculptural explorations by an artist best known today for drawings on layered paper supports. While early works hint at her trademark material interests, especially any associations with weaving and the loom, some of her forays into styrofoam have a bold Gustonian goofiness that contrasts with the understated delicacy of line and muted tonalities of her evolved style, hinting at a feisty side of this master of subtly and restraint.
