FRIDAY: Beautiful Bushwick

Do you envision Parisian boulevards and English countrysides when you think of landscape paintings? For Deborah Brown, Bushwick's barbed wire and water towers are just as worthy of artistic immortalization. Her truly lovely paintings capture and refine the tiniest moments in the Bushwick landscape, from sneakers hung off of telephone lines to abandoned warehouses. Tonight is the opening reception for "The Bushwick Paintings" at Storefront on Wilson Avenue, the recently-opened neighborhood gallery co-founded by Brown; though we can't guarantee free drinks, we can guarantee that the paintings will take you by surprise. 6-10pm, 16 Wilson Ave.
